Hey eco-artist!

You can turn over and draw your own Turner-style sketches on the back. ➔
Or why not invent a new style of art? Good luck!

Turner got wet! 1816 was one of the wettest summers ever, because of a volcanic eruption in the Philippines in 1815.

Turner usually showed castles in the background and high up above the rest of his picture subject. That makes them look more important.

Turner painted all these great Yorkshire castles. Fill in the missing letters to make an important Turner word.

Get that View!

When you visit, see if you can find the exact spot where Turner stood to sketch. Does your view look the same, or has anything changed?

When Turner painted his landscapes, there were fewer trees around because England needed all the wood for the wars against France.
